6. OTHER SCHOLARLY ACTIVITY

Attendance at the Allied Social Sciences Associations meetings where I have attended and chaired sessions, served as discussant, talked with publishers, and attended Economists for Peace and Security sessions and board and fellows meetings; frequent international travel to present invited papers, give keynote addresses, and conduct research; service as reviewer for journals, book publishers, grant-making agencies; have published nearly 200 newspaper and magazine columns on economic matters, several globally published via the Global Beat/Knight-Ridder syndicate; occasional TV, radio, talk show appearances. Mention in major media such as The Economist, The Guardian, The New York Times, and ABC News (U.S.).

7. FACULTY SERVICE

A. Service to the University and College

Since 1991, I have served in various roles. These include, for the then-Augusta State University (ASU) at large, service as the ASU Phi Kappa Phi chapter president-elect (2 years), president (2 years), and immediate past-president (2 years); co-initiator and chief organizer of the now annual Student Research and Fine Arts Conferences (4 years); organized a symposium on the 10th anniversary of the Fall of the Berlin Wall and the 40th anniversary of NATO in conjunction with the A-Day-for-ASU fund-raising campaign; served on the ASU International Affairs Committee; the ASU SACS Steering Committee [accreditation agency]; served on the ASU Cullum Committee (lecture series on South Africa); the ASU Budget Advisory Committee; the ASU Faculty Evaluation and Development Committee; the ASU Intellectual Properties Committee; the ASU Physical Facilities and Safety Committee; the ASU Information Technology Committee, and the ASU Search Committee, Director of Computing Services. I was a founding member of the ASU chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). In the James M. Hull College of Business (HCB) I served repeatedly on the Promotion & Tenure, the Promotion and Tenure Criteria, and the Post-Tenure committees; and on the Strategic Planning Committee. I also served on the Intellectual Contributions Committee for AACSB Accreditation; the AACSB Accreditation Steering Committee; was editor of the college's original AACSB Accreditation Plan; served on the Undergraduate and the Graduate Curriculum Committees, and was co-founder and co-director of the ASU Center for Regional Economic Studies. In 2005, I served on the Dean Search Committee.

B. Professional service

Professional services include editorial/advisory board duties at several international, peer-reviewed journals as well as co-editing The Economics of Peace and Security Journal (with Prof. J. Paul Dunne, Cape Town, South Africa).

For several years I was external grant reviewer for the Norwegian Research Council, the National Research Foundation, South Africa, and the Social Science Research Council, Global Security and Cooperation program. I am co-editor of Studies in Defence and Peace Economics, a monograph series with Routledge, London (with Prof. K. Hartley, University of York, U.K.). For seven years I was Vice-Chair of the Board of Directors of Economists for Peace and Security (EPS), where I remain a Fellow of the organization. I held or hold memberships in the American Economic Association, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Peace Science Society International, the Asian Peace Science Network, the Honor Societies of Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Xi, and Beta Gamma Sigma, and Fellow, Inter-University Seminar on Armed Forces and Society. I was an external curriculum reviewer for the defense economics module at the Africa Center for Strategic Studies, National Defense University, Washington, D.C. For several years I served as a Juror for the Roet Prize, University of Amsterdam and was on the board of the Gandhi Center for Conflict Studies at the University of Sydney, Australia. I served as external examiner for an M.Phil. thesis in India and for a Ph.D. thesis in Australia. In 2013, I co-initiated a peace economics blog via the United States Institute of Peace, International Network for Economics and Conflict (since then moved to the Institute for Economics and Peace). In spring 2014, I set up an international research consortium on firearms and small arms research (www.smallarmsdata.org).

C. Community and charitable service

For about two decades I published an economics column. I was vice-chair of Economists for Peace and Security (1998-2005); there are innumerable local, national, and international TV/radio/print-media interviews on economic questions of the day; I fill occasional requests from local business community about economic data; and for five years I was a member of the Advisory Board, Small Business Incubator, Southeastern Technology Center, Augusta, GA.

8. AWARDS/FUNDING

My international travel is usually paid by the inviting institution or organization, such as the Club of Madrid, NATO, the EU, the World Bank, the U.N. and/or its affiliates, the Chinese, Russian, German, South African, Portuguese, and other governments, and many universities and foundations. Since 2008, I hold a summer visiting professorship at Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok. In summer 2012, I had a visiting fellowship at the University of Barcelona, Spain. For fall 2009, I held a visiting appointment at the Universidad del Rosario, Bogotá, Colombia. For fall 2008, I held a Visiting Scholar appointment at the University of Colorado, Boulder, and served as Research Director for the One Earth Future Foundation near Boulder. For summers 2005 and 2008, I was a visiting professor at the School of Business, University of New South Wales, Australian Defence Force Academy, Canberra, Australia. In 2003, the National Research Foundation, South Africa, granted funds for a South African lecture tour and a visiting professorship at the University of Port Elizabeth, Port Elizabeth, South Africa [now the Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University].

Grants: In 2014, I received a consulting grant to work on a Canadian-government funded project studying the country's civilian firearms industry. 2009 and 2010, $25,000 and $20,000, respectively, from the Institute of Economy and Peace (Sydney, Australia). In 2010, $15,000 grant from the Small Arms Survey, Geneva, Switzerland. In 2009, $20,000 from the U.S. Institute of Peace (Washington, D.C.). In 2008, co-recipient $60,000 from One Earth Future Foundation/Arsenault Family Foundation (Superior, CO). In 2007, $15,000 on-kind from Meltwater News, a commercial internet-search based news aggregator and distributor to assist in conducting research on small arms and light weapons. In 1994, $10,000 to support the work of the Augusta State University Center for Regional Economic Studies (ACCRES). In 1993, $25,000 matching grant award from Winston Foundation (Washington, DC) to the Conversion Information Center, Council on Economic Priorities, to do research work with Domenick Bertelli on military expenditures, resource conversion, and multilateral institutions. In 1991, $50,000 from the Ford Foundation to produce a compilation of a roster of economists worldwide (with special emphasis on developing countries and eastern Europe) working in the area of defense/peace economics and directing the researching and writing of substantive papers addressing the research needs of economists in those regions. In 1990, I raised $25,000 to fund a conference on economic issues of disarmament, held at the University of Notre Dame. In 1989, I received a John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation Grant in Research and Teaching for summer research on "The Political Economy of Arms Production in Developing Nations and Prospects for Conventional Arms Control." In 1988, I was named Peace Scholar and awarded a dissertation year fellowship by the United States Institute of Peace in Washington, D.C.

9. HONORS/NOMINATIONS

Upon retirement, I was named Emeritus Professor of Economics at Augusta University. In 2015, I was inducted into Morehouse College's Martin Luther King, Jr., Collegium of Scholars. 2008, I was named the James M. Hull College of Business Professor of the Year. I received the then-Augusta State University's Louis K. Bell Research Award in 2005, at the time the University's sole research award. In 1990, at the recommendation of the Department of Economics, the University of Notre Dame nominated my dissertation for entry in the Council of Graduate School's national competition for its quadrennial Distinguished Dissertation Award in the Social Sciences.
